Mallory Marshall is a performer, educator and choreographer based in Metro Detroit, Michigan. She was a student of The Dance Shoppe where she trained in a variety of dance genres for 16 years. Outside of The Dance Shoppe, Mallory has trained in some of the country's most popular dance hubs — including Los Angeles, CA; New York City; and Chicago, IL. In May of 2022 she graduated from Wayne State University with a B.F.A in Dance where she excelled as a student-choreographer, research assistant, and dance captain of the spring 2022 musical. One of her solo works, "I'm In Here Somewhere", was featured in Wayne State's senior showcase in New York in March of 2022. Mallory has grown up in the DMA organization and was proud to be awarded the title of Miss Dance of America 2019. She is recognized most notably for her expertise as a tap dancer and is proud to be an active influencer in the efforts to keep tap dance a thriving, growing form. Mallory's passion for performing, teaching, and choreographing goes as far back as her early years of childhood, and as a 21 year old now, she is dedicated to educating and inspiring the future generations of dancers.
